

BRIDGE WHIST AND 'DUTCH TREAT'

Blue Ridge Springs Exists in Atmosphere of Jolly Enjoyment.

SEVERAL CARD PARTIES

Handsome Prizes in Jewelry Are Given to the Winners.

BLUE RIDGE SPRINGS, July 28.—The prophecy of a rainy "St. Swithen's Day," which has been fulfilled by daily showers since the fifteenth of July, was broken yesterday by a cool, windy day of sun, shine, and the month is dying gracefully, to give place to her gay and giddy sister, August, who takes no heed of the sweet voices of Nature, the murmur of running brook, or the song of birds, chief among which are the wood thrush and the "rob white." The latter seems to be having no end of trouble in keeping up with "Mrs. Bob White," who must be flirting in this happy summertime, judging from the sharp, peremptory calls that he sends out for her ladyship. The everlasting little speak, too, if it would but listen to the melody of the Great Creator, lifting humanity's soul to Him in love and reverence.

The record here shows that this has been a successful month, and Mr. Brown will be called upon to meet the guests of the full house in August. He is always found equal to all demands, and his management as an ideal host has been long established.

A lovely little hostess was Miss Imogene Little, who gave a surprise party to her mother, Mrs. Little, of Martinsville, Va., and was a handsome bouquet, tied with broad white satin ribbon. The petite dame planned and carried out, unaided, this unique party.

Mrs. W. L. Moody, of Galveston, Tex., registered in the hotel, and is always a welcome guest here. Colonel Moody is a native of Virginia, and like many of the sons of the "Old Dominion" has prospered in Texas, where he has long made his home, and greatly added to the commercial importance of Galveston, the city of his residence.

Mrs. Moody entertained at bridge whist on Tuesday evening in an informal way, and will give a series of these charming little parties during her stay here.

On Wednesday morning the guests of Blue Ridge Springs gave themselves a "Dutch treat" in the form of a large progressive euchre party. The game was played on one of the broad vine-clad verandas, and was pronounced one of the most successful affairs of the season. Mrs. M. M. Morton, of South Boston, Va., was the efficient promoter and mistress of ceremonies, aided by Mrs. Winthrop, Mrs. Jeffries, Mrs. Overby and Miss Julia Worth. Miss Worth gave the beautiful score cards which recorded victory or defeat. The prizes were given by Mrs. Morton, and Mrs. James Pritchett, of Danville, Va., were scorers. After a cult with three competitors, Mrs. W. L. Moody won the first prize, a handsome anyvise brooch, encircled with pearls. Mrs. Stone took the second prize, a silver stand, with gold and enamel ornamentation, and presented it to Miss Frankie McKinney. The "lady's consolation" was won by Mrs. Overby, and she now wears pretty gold collar plus set with pearls. The prizes were presented by Dr. Stone in apt speech, and Mrs. Stone presented the prizes for the gentlemen.

The first prize for gentlemen, a gold scarf-pin, set with a pearl and diamond, was won by Mr. Winthrop, and as it is in the form of an important question, he is expected to "pop the question."

The second prize, a gold crescent, set with small diamonds, was captured by Mr. Jeffries, who, being a married man, it was at once confiscated by his wife.

Mr. Harris, of Blackstone, Va., had defeated made possible by receiving a silver "scarf-pin," which is supposed to have the virtue of winning the constancy of his "sweet girl."

The German on Friday evening was a brilliant success, skillfully conducted by Mr. S. P. Tregant, of Roanoke. The "Ladies' Club" marched and counter-marched to the call of his whistle.

Miss Kate Chambers, of Liberty, Texas, is among recent arrivals, and after spending a short time here she will visit relatives in Culpeper and Orange, Va. The Chambers' company, of Virginia, family noted for scholarly attainments. General T. J. Chambers, her uncle, gave distinguished service to the republic of Texas, and was a polished and scholarly gentleman.

Mr. Douglas Arthur Teed, the well-known artist, had an informal exhibit of some of his work at his studio in St. James cottage. The small number of paintings shown—Mr. Teed's pictures find ready purchasers—gave evidence of great scope of artistic talent, combined with thorough training and study, and a perfection of the handling of light and shade, and that elusive element known as "atmosphere," so essential to the master artist. Mr. Teed will have an exhibition later of his work, which the guests here are anticipating with much pleasure.

Mr. James Pritchett, of Danville, Va., is spending his vacation here, as he enjoys a return to Blue Ridge Springs; the scene of happy memories, and the "happy days" he is now one of the best of the guests in demand, and ever thoughtful and courteous to the dowagers, who patiently sit as chaperons while the young people enjoy the dances and other diversions so dear to the heart of youth.

GAYEST OF LIFE AT THE BRANDON

The Week Has Been Resplendent With Music, Fun and Frolic.

AN UNIQUE ENTERTAINMENT

Handsome Card Party Was One of Features of the Week.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
THE BRANDON, July 28.—As August draws near, social life at the beautiful Hotel Brandon is gradually keyed to a higher pitch. The homelike atmosphere, so characteristic of the place, remains undisturbed, but things are getting more lively.

A very unique and enjoyable entertainment of the past week was the library party given in the ball-room on Friday night. The quieter members lined the walls as spectators, and a little apart from the rest sat the judges, who pronounced upon the merits of the living books that flod before them.

Those officiating judicially were Mrs. Dabney Maury, of Peoria, Ill.; Mrs. Johnson, of Richmond; Mrs. Roller, of West Virginia; Mrs. Minor, of the University; and Mrs. Euse, of the University. The excellent work of the representatives that the ladies found it hard to decide, but after deliberation, the first prize, a handsome book, was awarded to Miss Katherine Robinson, as "Madam Butterfly." Miss Robinson made the prettiest and most perfect of the group. The consolation prize was bestowed upon Mrs. J. M. Pagaud, of New Orleans, who was irresistibly fine and funny as the "Old Curiosity Show."

Among those conspicuous for becoming and faithful conductors of the party were Mrs. M. M. Morton, of South Boston, Va.; Mrs. Rutherford Rose, as "The Chaplet of Pearls"; Miss Crenshaw, as "White Wings"; and Miss Davidson, as "Sister Dora." Mrs. Whitney, of Washington, was very handsome as "In Silk Attire," as was also Mrs. I. N. Jones, as "The Princess Aline." Misses Rosa Mosely, Elizabeth Chaney and Isabel Williams represented "Little Women," and Misses "Wheat," "The Daisy Chain," "Mrs. Florence," and "In Silk Attire." Among the notably funny ones were Mr. Jack Aspinwall, whose bright and wenderness caricatured "The Millionaire Baby"; Mrs. James Rutherford and Mrs. C. R. Gay, two pretty young matrons, as "Pigs in Flies," and Mrs. Euse, as "The Three Men in a Boat."

The success of the party was largely due to the efficient aid of Mrs. W. Aspinwall, of Washington. A brilliant and recherche affair was the progressive euchre party given by Mrs. P. Pagaud, Wednesday afternoon. Green was the color scheme, from the decorations in the ball-room to the dainty, dainty caps and aprons of sweet young girls serving refreshments. A cluster of fragrant sweet peas caught up the tiny, tiny blossoms. Mrs. Pagaud was a most graceful and elegant hostess, and the game was thoroughly enjoyed. The first prize was won by Mrs. James Rutherford. It was a lace handkerchief. The consolation prize, a silver stand box, was awarded to Mr. John Harrison.

The winner of the booby prize was presented with a little violin, tied with green ribbon, and advised to play on that, as she could not play at cards. Some of the players were: Miss Frances Jones, Miss Laura Jones, Miss Percival, Mrs. Cuccole, New Orleans; Miss McMurtree, Philadelphia; Mrs. Ben Nash, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Guy, Mrs. Crenshaw, Mrs. I. N. Jones, Richmond; Mrs. Minor, University of Virginia; Miss Mary West Pickens, of Blacksburg; Mrs. P. Pagaud, Cheshaw, Richmond; Mrs. Roller, West Virginia; Mrs. Maury, Peoria, Ill.; Mrs. Walter Williams, Mrs. Grandison Mosely, Miss Robinson, Miss McCaw, Mrs. E. M. Headley, Richmond; Mrs. Chenery, Ashland; Mrs. Langhorne, Washington; Mr. C. Williams, Richmond; Jack Aspinwall, Washington; Bernard Jones, V. M. J.; Greenhow Johnston, Richmond. The young ladies serving were: Misses Oliva Manson, Katherine Robinson, Florence Lacy, Frances "Whist," Elsie Parry and Marion Langhorne.

The friends of Miss Annie Braxton, of Fredericksburg, are glad to welcome her back to the Brandon.

Mrs. Roller, who was Miss Carrie Booker, of Richmond, has endeared herself to each and all among the guests. Mrs. I. N. Jones contributes to the pleasure of the company by her sweet voice, both in the ball-room and on the moonlit veranda at night, when she is accompanied by her son with his guitar.

The latest names on the register are: Frank Orgain, Richmond; G. K. Packard, Baltimore; W. R. Stover, Richmond; B. Morgan Shepherd, Ashland; W. A. Shoemaker, Baltimore; Prof. A. W. Tuttle, University of Virginia; H. M. Gay, Washington; S. W. Crenshaw, Richmond; James T. Rutherford, Richmond; G. F. Turley, Blacksburg; W. P. Price, Blacksburg; Emory H. Miller and wife, Hagerstown, Md.; O. F. Binford and wife, Waynesboro; Stonewall Tompkins, Miller School; W. D. Trevillian, Charlottesville; Miss Wherry, Richmond; Miss Bunting, Virginia; Miss Annie M. Braxton, Fredericksburg; Rev. H. B. Lee, Charlottesville; E. E. Seaton, Norfolk; T. M. Gathright, Covington.

Mr. James Pritchett, of Danville, Va., is spending his vacation here, as he enjoys a return to Blue Ridge Springs; the scene of happy memories, and the "happy days" he is now one of the best of the guests in demand, and ever thoughtful and courteous to the dowagers, who patiently sit as chaperons while the young people enjoy the dances and other diversions so dear to the heart of youth.
